ANDREW INVITES NATIONAL LEGION TO VESSEL RACES

Congressman Gives Added Impetus to Interest in Coming Sailing Classic by Having Convention Attend

(Special to the Times.)

Washington, D. C., May 21.—Congressman A. Piatt Andrew today extended an invitation to the American Legion to attend the fishermen's races which will be held in Gloucester on Wednesday, October 8. The day of the city's Massachusetts tercentenary celebration and the day following the big Legion convention parade in Boston.

Congressman Andrew's invitation to the Legion follows the decision of the fishermen's race committee of Gloucester to arrange the first of the fish schooner races for that day so that it might be witnessed by the legionnaires attending the twelfth national convention.

If Congressman Andrew's proposal is satisfactory to the Legion convention heads, he will endeavor to have naval vessels sent to Gloucester to patrol the race course and to furnish a vantage point from which the legionnaires could view the contest. The legionnaires, should they avail themselves of the invitation, have been guaranteed a day of entertainment in the city, which will hold a clambake among other events.

Since Congressman Andrew is a member of the Gloucester Fishermen's race committee, of Legion's convention commission, and of the committee in charge of the maritime events in connection with the Massachusetts tercentenary celebration, he is working through all three to have the legionnaires participate in the Gloucester event.

New Chart.

Special to the Times).

Washington, D. C., May 22.—The coast and geodetic survey of the commerce department announces the publication of a new nautical chart for Narragansett Bay and warns mariners against the use of obsolete editions of the chart. The new chart is 31 by 46 inches in size and is drawn to a scale of 1: 40,000. Copies may be procured by addressing requests to the government printing office, Washington, D. C., for nautical chart No. 353.

were reunited at Halifax Monday, with the arrival at that port of the Gloucester dragger Ruth Lucille. They were Captain Thomas Benham, master, and Robert Burns Benham of the Ruth Lucille, and Captain George Benham, master of the Lockport schooner Julie Opp II, which is repairing at Dartmouth. Robert Burns Benham had not seen his brother George for 15 years.

When 16 years of age, Captain Thomas Benham left his native home at Lockport for Gloucester and is now one of the best known masters in the Gloucester fleet.
